Utah Retired School Employees Association

BULLETIN

President's Message

Tom Nedreberg

When I first retired a couple of years ago, I felt a twinge of guilt and nostalgia about the first day of school. Guilty because I wasn't there, and nostalgia about the beginning of a new year. Now, since my wife is still teaching, I notice the anxiety about going back to school. I wonder, would I really want to go back myself? So many things have changed.

The most obvious happened as a result of COVID. We've heard in the news about falling test scores, dips in attendance, and changes in the attitudes of students. There's also what seems like increased professional development and increased professional expectations without additional resources.

When I think about the teachers, teacher assistants, aides, counselors, principals, bus drivers, and lunch ladies, currently in the schools, I'm amazed at their ability to adapt and serve the needs of students, no matter where they are. I loved teaching and the profession of being an educator. But I also like being retired now.

Just like teaching today has challenges, so does retirement. Hopefully, with the pension and social security in Utah, you don't have big financial worries, but with inflation and families, it might be. Health is always a concern. Not just the cost, but losing our youthful energy. There also always seems to be some new gadget that is supposed to make life easier. At least that's what my kids say.

But I also don't want to fade away. I want to keep learning. I want to keep helping make the world a better place. I still want to serve in some capacity, doing something that I couldn't do when I was teaching. So here are a few things I've done:

I joined AARP. Not only do they advocate for seniors, but their organization was formed from the National Retired Teachers Association (NRTA), of which URSEA is an affiliate. AARP has opportunities to volunteer, learn, network, and advocate. They have a great magazine. You can choose email lists that suit your interests.

I volunteered to fill a City Council seat when there was an opening, and have since been elected. I've gotten to serve with three of my past students. I won't say it's all roses because local government is hard. Still, I'm part of the discussion on how to maintain and improve our community.

I've been doing genealogy with my sister. We've attended large conferences, participated in webinars, and researched online both our family and how to do things. One byproduct was learning about Artificial Intelligence used in genealogy, which sparked an interest in attending an education conference to learn more about it. I'm not an expert, but I'm also not afraid to use it when it's appropriate. I've also learned to use my computer to do things I could never have done years ago, like putting together books of photos for my children and digitizing old family recordings. Each project starts with learning, which is part of the challenge.

I know at times we look back on the past with fondness, but I'm happy my grandchildren are in car seats instead of bouncing around in the backseat like I did when I was a kid. Being retired, I don't want to go backwards with my life. I want to continue learning and moving forward. I just get frustrated when it seems harder to learn than it used to be. I don't think that's a reason to give up, though. So, as the new school year starts, I'm preparing to be a student myself and continue to keep learning as the world keeps changing.

FROM THE DESK OF THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Arthur Cox

I hope this issue of the URSEA newsletter finds you healthy and happy. Summer is over and your family adventures have ended but fall is here and all the wonderful colors of the trees and mountains are playing with every glance that we see in the fields and valleys.

I had a wonderful experience the first week of September when Dr. Larry Dean and I went around and delivered two of the URSEA checks for $1250.00 to two deserving teachers who won our award scholarships. It was so exciting going into the schools, meeting the principals, going into the classrooms and meeting the teachers and their students while giving them the checks to help them further their educational endeavors. It is because of your support of our organization that we can, and will, continue helping teachers.

We have been discussing ways to increase our scholarships to educators to $1500.00. We have been discussing ways to provide small donations to educators of $250.00 to be used to buy classroom materials. We have been actively looking for groups and sponsors that wish to help the educators in this state. We already have two generous organizations, AARP of Utah and the AMBA Benefits organization, that each provide a financial scholarship to our educators. If you or if your organization wishes to provide a financial scholarship to one or more deserving educators in Utah please contact Dr. Larry Dean or myself and let us know how we can make it happen. We only wish we could invite all our supporters with us when we go into the schools and into the classrooms and meet the excited teachers while handing them their scholarship checks. We can, and are, making a difference in helping teachers in this state. We are making a difference because of you and your support of the Utah Retired School Employees Association.

Thank you for your continued help and support.

URSEA PAST PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear URSEA Members,

My favorite time of year is fast approaching. I love the color of the leaves and changing weather as fall approaches. This coming Monday, September 22, 2025 is the first day of fall. For some reason, the beauty of the world seems magnified to me. This past week I had the opportunity along with our Executive Director Mr. Arthur Cox to deliver two of our Elementary School Scholarships to two deserving recipients. Our first visit was to Sage Hills Elementary School and we were met by the Principal, Ms. Terri Rigby, who directed us to meet with Lindsi Coughran who is a partnership facilitator and intern mentor/coach at the school. What a pleasure it was for us to meet with her and feel of her excitement of working with our youth. She was so excited to receive this honor that will allow her to continue her education. We left Saratoga Springs and traveled to Art City School in Springville, Utah. There we met with Principal Clint Cornwall, and he introduced us to Lindsie Jordan, who is serving as a counselor at the school. She was equally excited to receive her check for $1250 that will enhance her future opportunities to help with tuition to continue her education.

After years of working on our board in several capacities, I feel our scholarship program is so helpful in recognizing and providing future opportunities for our outstanding teachers.

We continue to search for current and retired school employees to join our ranks. Whether you are a teacher, administrator, certified or classified employee in any position, we need you to join our ranks. We are so proud of our Public Education system here in Utah. Thank you for all you do!

Regards,
Dr. Larry Dean
